SENATE REFUSES COOLIDGE'S PLEA

AWAITING NEXT MOVE IN FIGHT ON WARREN

PRESIDENT IS REFUSED OWN PARTY'S BACKING

Tradition of Years Goes to Smash as Executives Choice is Defeated By a Majority of Seven Votes—White House Says Nothing.

Washington.—The senate rejected Charles Beecher Warren's nomination as attorney general by a more decisive vote than the one last week. The roll call this time showed 39 to 46 against, as compared with 39 to 41 on the first attempt to confirm.

Immediately after the vote the senate adjourned. Majority Leader Curtis and Senator Butler of Massachusetts, the president's closest senate adviser, hurried to the white house. They were closeted with the president and Warren, a white house guest at the executive mansion, for an hour. They would make no comment.

Waren's rejection a second time was a foregone conclusion. Most of the debating on behalf of Warren was carried on by the new republican senators. The old timers kept rather silent and left their green colleagues largely to the mercy of the toughened old anti-Warren leaders—Borah, Norris, Walsh, Jom Reed and Robinson.

A recess appointment will be offered to Warren, as promised by the president, it was learned reliably at the white house. No official statement was issued to indicate whether Warren would accept.

President Coolidge announced that if Warren was rejected he would offer him a recess appointment. Democratic senators are preparing to challenge such action if Warren accepts this proffer. They want to hold the senate here so that the president will have time to submit a new nomination, if he so desires. If the president advises the senate that he has no further communication, the senate probably will adjourn and go home for the summer. Then, if Warren accepts a recess appointment, the fight over the legality of this will come next fall when congress must consider whether to vote him back pay.

Thus the question is whether a president can make a recess appointment for a vacancy that happens while the senate is in session.

All difficulties would be solved if Warren refused an appointment. Most opinion here is that he will take this course to extricate the president from his embarassment.

Those voting for Waren's confirmation at the roll call were:

Republicans, Bingham, Butler, Cameron, Capper, Cummins, Curtis, Dale, Deneen, Dupont, Ernst, Fernald, Fess, Gillett, Goff, Gooding, Hale, Harreld, Jones of Washington, Keyes, McKinley, McLean, McNary, Means, Metcalf, Moses, Oddie, Pepper, Pine, Sackett, Schall, Shortridge, Smoot, Spencer, Stanfield, Wadsworth, Watson, Weller, Willis, Lenroot.

Opposing the confirmation were:

Republicans, Borah, Boorkhart, Couzens, Frazier, Johnson of California, Ladd, Norbeck, Norris, LaFollette, Howell.

Democrats: Ashurst, Bayard Blease, Bratton, Broussard, Bruce, Caraway, Copeland, Ferris, Fletcher, George, Dill, Edwards, Gerry, Glass, Smith, Kendrick, Harris, Harrison, Heflin, King, McKellar, Mayfield, Neely, Ralston, Ransdell, Reed of Missouri, Robinson, Sheppard, Simmons, Swanson, Trammell, Tyson, Walsh, Wheeler.

Farmer laborite: Shipstead.

Railways As War Arm

San Francisco.—Efficient and carefully laid plans for the use of railroads in time of war must be evolved if the general lack of co-operation evident in the last war is to be overcome, according to Paul Shoup, vice-president of the Southern Pacific, who spoke at a luncheon of the Association of the Army of the United States. Shoup advocated careful listing of railway resources and transportation schooling for military officers. He declared that the army must plan defenses for railway and oil centers, which, he said, would be menaced in event of an air attack. Brig. Gen. Alfred Bjornstad was a guest at the luncheon.

De Valera Repudiated

Dublin.—Eamon de Valera and his republican followers have been sharply repudiated by the Irish electorate. In nine bye-elections, distributed about the Free state, the Cosgrave government swamped the irreconcilables by winning seven and so nearly winning the other two that there can be no question of the sentiment of the people.

WOOD WILL STAY ON PRESENT JOB

LIVELY POLITICS FORECAST BY FINAL DECISION

PENNSYLVANIA SITUATION FULL OF COMPLICATIONS

California School Head Will Remain and Strive for Principals Advocated By His Administration—Will Oppose Duel Measures.

San Francisco.—Published dispatches from Sacramento carry the statement that Will C. Wood, State superintendent of public instruction, has announced definitely that he had refused to accept a position as superintendent of schools of Pennsylvania and quoted Wood as saying, "I shall not quit my office with snipers in the rear."

The superintendent's statement, as published, follows:

"I have definitely decided to remain in California as superintendent of public instruction. Last night I wired Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania that I would give no further consideration to the proposition to come to Pennsylvania. My reason for the action is two-fold:

"First, the Pennsylvania situation is complicated by a breach between the governor and the school leaders. I doubt whether it would be possible for me to heal this breach, thus enabling me to put over a constructive program of education.

"In the second place, the school situation here in California is such that I feel that I should not leave it at the present.

"Evidences multiply that the forces of reaction, anxious to attack the educational program for which I have stood during the last eleven years, are awaiting my resignation with intent to undo so much of the achievement of California in school affairs as they can. I shall not quit my office with snipers in the rear."

Wood's statement announcing his determination to stay by his California post was considered in political circles as a new declaration of war against the governor, whose policies he has consistently opposed for the past two years.

The state educator is expected to lead an active fight against the two Deuel bills before the legislature, one of which calls for the abolition of his office.

The other Deuel measure provides for the appointment of a state director of education at a salary of $7,500 per year to supervise the state teachers' colleges and remove them from the jurisdiction of Wood's office.

The Pennsylvania position which Wood refused carries a salary of $12,000 per year as against $5,000 in California.

The educator's statement is taken in some quarters as an indication that he plans to stage his final fight in the governorship election two years hence, entering the race as a candidate against Richardson.

SAN FRANCISCO RICH CHEMIST IN MYSTERY DISAPPEARANCE

San Francisco.—Police of the state are still puzzled as to the whereabouts of Fred A. Kormann, wealthy chemist and inventor, who dropped mysteriously from sight a week ago while on his way from his home to his chemical laboratory. Further complicating the case in the eyes of the police was the recovery Saturday in a Bush street garage of the sedan with special built body in which Kormann was riding when he left his home. The car, registered in the name of Mrs. Kormann, was stored in the garage shortly after the hour of Kormann's disappearance.

Kormann gained wide notoriety about a year ago when he announced the perfection of a formula for synthetic gasoline, making possible the manufacture of fuel to replace rapidly failing petroleum supplies.

California Hunters in Africa

Paris.—California's modern Robin Hoods left here, March 15, for Africa, to hunt big game with bows and arrows. The archers are Stewart Edward White, the author, and Dr. T. Saxton Pope of the University of California, accompanied by Arthur H. Young, a moving picture man. The party will go directly to Mombassa in east Africa, there to be joined by Leslie Simpson of Oakland. Mombassa is the chief entrance to the lion country.

Bandits Shoot Americans

Athens.—Dr. John Logan of Gainesville, Ga., was shot by bandits who held up a party of three American students traveling in southern Epirus, Greece.

A DREAM PLAY OR A NIGHTMARE

The Seniors will present "The Beggar on Horseback" this evening in the Campbell Grammar School auditorium. This play is one of the most entertaining of the season and is full of surprses. It is an unusual dream play and Campbell is most fortunate in having this opportunity of seeing it produced. It s still playing to crowded houses in the East.

The play is in two parts between which you will have the pleasure of hearing Mr. Leonard Abinante, whom most of you doubtless have, to those who have not this will be a great pleasure. Mr. Abinante is the brother of Nuncy Abnante, who is a prominent member of the Senior class.

Ray Thomas, a talented member of the Freshman Class will favor us with selections on his saxaphone.

Between scenes we will have the pleasure of hearing the high school orchestra under the direction of Mr. Halamicek.

Behind scenes we will have music as the play demands, by several members of the San Jose High School orchestra.

The play will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Admission 50 cents, children 35 cents. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

CLASS SHOWS ART

The English literature class of the Campbell high school under the direction and coaching of of their teacher Miss Claribel Boesch, entertained the faculty and student body with a presentation of the "Knight of the Burning Pestle." a tragi-comic theatrical from the writings of Fletcher and Beaumont. It was full of the spirit of a dead age, which made you laugh until tears began to flow. One unique feature of it was the construction of the giant for the occasion, which certainly indicated initiative, thought and study on the part of Miss Boesch and her class. Ask Miss Boesch or some member of her class how it was done. It is hoped that more such playlets will be given. This one will always remain with all who enjoyed it a very pleasant memory.

MARCH HARE PARTY BY SCHOOL FACULTY

The faculty of the Campbell high school, with their better or lesser halves, was breezily entertained at a very unique and original "Mad March Hare" party at the home of Miss Kittie M. Johnson, on March 14.

The guests were attired in novel costumes, most of them depicting well known characters from "Alice in Wonderland.' The games and entertainment were quite in keeping with the name of the party and were followed by a "mad tea party" at which novel refreshments of waffles, lemonade and tarts were served.

To quote one of the party, "If you had been present, you would have come to the conclusion that some other animal than hare had gone daft."

Alice proved the most popular character, being variously represented by Mrs. C. E. York, Mss Otterman, Mrs. Noddin and Miss Alma Lewis. Others were the "Duchess," Mrs. Hummel; the "Hatter," Miss Darrow; "Tweedle Dee and Tweedle Dum," Miss Johnson and Miss Gardner; "Knave of Hearts," Miss Jenkins; "Red Queen," Mrs. Pate; "White Queen," Mrs. Johnson; Gardeners, Mrs. Weiss and Mr. Wegel; "The Rabbitt," Mr. York; "Brownie Spades," Miss Boesch, a jester. Mr. Noddin and Mr. and Mrs. Cramer were more modern types; present day readers of "Alice", and Mr. Fablinger and Mr. Cutting were just "themselves."

Senior Play Friday, March 20.

IN MEMORIUM
Mrs. Mae M. Whitman

who passed to her reward Tuesday morning, March 10, 1925.

A large concourse of relatives and friends gathered at the San Jose Undertaking parlors Friday afternoon to pay their tribute of esteem and love to Mrs. Mae M. Whitman. The services were participated in by Mrs. Anna Marden De Yo of the State W. C. T. U. who spoke of Mrs. Whitman's long and distinguished services in connection with that organization. Then followed the beautiful floral tribute when scores of her W. C. T. U. Sisters passed by the casket and placed their tribute of beauty on her bier.

Rev. W. E. Eckles, of the First Congregational Church of Campbell paid a richly deserved tribute to Mrs. Whitman's quality as a wife and companion in the home and a neighbor in the community.

Mrs. Leda Gregory Jackson sang "Fade, Fade each earthly joy, Jesus is Mine" "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" and Matheson's immortal Hymn, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go." Mrs. W. S. Carpenter presided at the organ.

Pastor Towner of the First Baptist Church, of San Jose, read appropriate selections of scripture, offered prayer and read a poem, which Mrs. Whitman had directed to him as a fitting expression of her life of unwavering trust, dauntless courage, deathless hope and tender love.

Mrs. Whitman lived a life of singular beauty and rare grace. Of her it might be said that she prayed and trusted as if everything depended on God and wrought with brain and voice, with pen and hand as if everything depended on her.

Amid life's mingled boughs of blossoms, fragrance and thorns, she built a little nest of peace and lined it with the eider down of Love. There was an unusual radiance eminating from her personality that spoke of enduring hardihood and victorious conflict, no less than of the gracious tenderness of a lfe of faith. "Amid the storms she sang" in the face of untoward circumstances she smiled—always she spoke softly and surely and faced with confident competence and unflagging energy her task. Hosts of people loved and trusted her and gladly followed her leadership being influenced by her counsel.

To her family she leaves the fragrant memory of a life of ineffable grace, and to her fellow-chrstians a sterling example of staunch loyalty to "the faith once delivered to the saints" whereby she "being dead yet speaketh."

Interment was at Oak Hill Cemetery. Frank Isenberger, P. T. Porter, J. L. Sharp, Carl J. Wilkin, F. E. Caton and J. A. Fisher, deacons of the First Baptist church, served as pall bearers.

Mary Moore Ayres was born at Andover, Henry County, Ill., Decemebr 5, 1845. She moved with her parents, Vincent Mortimer and Eliza T. Ayres, to Cambridge about 1857. Here she attended a school for girls, taught by Miss Fannie Soule. In 1859 she attended school in Galva. After finishing school she spent a year in the New England states, coming back to Galva she taught for two years in the public school.

Later she met and married John F. Davis in 1868. To them was born three children, Mortimer F., George A., and Charlotte E. Davis. In 1883 the family moved to Centerville, South Dakota, where Mr. Davis died six years later. From 1889 to 1894, Mrs. Davs was pastmistress at Centerville. On January 20, 1895, she was united in marriage with Chauncey H. Whitman at Oakdale, Nebraska. They immediately started for San Jose, California, arriving January 26, 1895. In February they moved to Campbell, which for the past thirty years has been her home.

While Mrs. Whitman has always been a devoted church worker, being a member of the Baptist faith, her greatest work for the past thirty-five years has been with the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Coming under the personal influence of that peerless leader, Frances E. Willard, Mrs. Whitman dedicated her life to the work of the W. C. T. U. She has held many responsible positions in the organization. For about nine years she was the national superintendent of the department of Temperance and Labor. Mrs. Whitman's council has always been sought in affairs of the Union in state, county and local unions. She possessed a ready pen and has written many leaflets for the Union.

Mrs. Whitman had a keen intellect and a vital interest in public affairs. Her quick sense of humor and her gentle graces made her a welcome friend and companion. She had a highly developed spiritual nature, always breathing the spirit of kindness and service. Her life motto was "I love everybody, I forgive everybody, I bless everybody."

She is survived by her husband Chauncey H. Whitman, daughter Charlotte E. Stull, of Lost Hills, a brother, A. Judson Ayres, of Nevada, Mo., and a sister, Mrs. Mabel A. Boyd, of Neleigh, Nebraska.

NATIONAL TOPICS DISCUSSED AT CLUB

Mrs. E. R. Kennedy, chairman of the general committee in charge of plans for the Spring Festival reported very satisfactory progress and announced that committees would be named at the next meeting and that every member is expected to assist in some way, so that no one's task will be over burdensome.

Mrs. Robson was chairman of program committee, assisted by Mrs. Stallman and Mrs. Galbraith. A delightful piano duet was played by Mrs. Perrott and Mrs. Robson, and Mrs. Hyde, whose sweet voice is always in demand, sang pleasingly.

"Civil Service Reform" was the general topic, the chairman taking the first division, the Spoils System; Mrs. Stallman, Civil Service Laws" and a brief sketch of the life of Jas. G. Blaine; and Mrs. Galbraith read several clippings dealing with "leadership.'

A number of live topics were introduced and interestingly discussed. Among them were the senatorial controversy over President Collidge's nomination of Warren; the Teachers' Bill now before our state legislature, and a new type of Educational System known generally as "The Dalton Plan" from Dalton, Mass. where it was first installed on a considerable scale, by its originator, Helen Parkhurst.

WALT GOES UP

Walt Hulsman, one of the limelight athletes of Campbell, has made a record in the pole vault that makes 'em situp. The Chronicle of Wednesday gives a nice story. He has cleared the bar at 12 feet 3 inches and the season is young as against an 11 feet 6 inch record of last season. Walt graduates fro mSan Jose high this June and will probably enter college next fall.

HOW BIG IS THE WORLD

That proverbial "rut" through which everyone passes is one deplorable unless it causes us to forget the bigger things of life. No one is immune from trudging in the path he has marked out for himself by the constant grind of the every-day drudgery. A "rut" is not a thing to be avoided IF IT IS THE CHANNEL THROUGH WHICH HONEST PROGRESS IS MADE. To accomplish anything worth the while it is necessary to apply one's self to the job in hand.

The masterpieces of art and literature, the discoveries of science, the consecration to the service of humanity in all its forms, have been the results of continuous effort, oblivious to all but the goal ahead, undistracted by the world's conventions, and unenticed by flattering promises of quicker and surer rewards. And no less admirable is the work of the common man or woman, whose lives are ennobled in the commoner tasks by which the work of the world is done and the daily bread is earned.

The only lamentable part of the pursuit of "rutology" is the fact that too many people are prone to forget how big the great world around them really is, thereby losing the broadening effect that makes possible greater achievement.

The world is bigger than yourself, house or business, bigger than your block, your ward or your town, bigger than your country, state or nation. Brotherhood looks across the seas, beckoning to a broader understanding among the peoples that inhabit the earth. The aims of governments and the factors of diplomacy can be but simple monitors of the greater forces of individual knowledge and the broadening effect of human sympathies for all mankind.

The world is yet bigger than any man's conception, for none has conquered it.

It is bigger than the combined arbitraments of nations, for world peace is yet in the making.

It is bigger than institutions of learning, for we have yet to find out what is in its depths or out in the vastness beyond its great orbit.

It is bigger than present attainments in knowledge of the supernatural, because divided millions still dedicate its various portions to the worship of different mediators with its creator.

If we must travel in the rut—and relatively speaking, we must—it is well to be able, on occasions, to divert ourselves to the contemplation of the infinite realms of thought yet unfathomed, and of world's work yet undone.

HOME TOWN LOYALTY

An ounce of loyalty to your home town is worth several pounds of prosperity. Once you get a man boosting for his home town you actually have contributed to its material wealth, besides adding one more person to the list whose forward-looking and forward-acting in conjunction with his fellow-boosters means more population, more institutions, more business, a greater town or city, and in this instance, a greater Los Gatos.

It is the little boosts that count—that build; it is the little knocks that subtract—that tear down. The growth of the healthy town is a gradual process. No spectacular, over-night development is expected or wanted, for permanency would be lacking. Truly, we would not hesitate to open a new vein of gold or tank a sudden burst of oil, nor would we suppress to the world the news of their sudden acquisition. But the best minds on the subject agree that the sudden or inflated boom is not the normal, hence not the desirable, kind of growth.

Neither would we wish any one person or single group of persons to suddenly take up the gavel and proclaim that the community's welfare rests solely in his or its hands; because the natural and justified tendency on the part of the remaining persons or groups would be to say "let him or them do it." Thus the community would become divided and lose a part of its strength for unified action.

The most desirable condition is that in which each citizen zealously, but without ostentation, seeks to advance his community's welfare with the same solemn determination and similar devotion that he manifests toward his own nearest and dearest affairs.

OPIUM AND DELAY

The International Opium Conference adopted an agreement to stop the smuggling of opium within five years. Why wait five years? With the opium that would be available during that length of time we could all be reduced to skin and bones, lay on Chinamen's cots, and dream about being millionaires.

Blessed are the righteous for they do not litter up the front pages.

A grouch seldom locates in a healthy body.

EASTER and EGGS

LENTEN SEASON and the approach of Easter make us think of eggs, reminding us that they are wonderfully good food, and suggesting some questions about prices.

So just now, particularly, for fluffy omeletts—the classical egg-on-toast—the familiar poached egg–the occasional "hard boiled"—the well known "ham and"—the dainty coddled egg.

Many customers inquire, "Will eggs be cheaper?"

Probably not. High prices of feed have been discouraging to poultrymen. The hen population of the country is reduced. Production is less.

But Konomy Water Glass is cheaper this season, only 20c. Ali signs point to the wisdom of preserving. Next summer eggs may be very high indeed.

She has but left us for a fairer shore;
And tho her Spirit heavenward may have fled,
Her influence remains for evermore!

HARRIET R. POWERS

The March twelfth issue of the Chico Enterprise contained the following item.

Death at an early hour this morning summoned Mrs. Harriet R. Powers, mother of E. A. Powers of the Chico State Teachers College faculty, at her home, three miles out on Sacramento avenue. Death was due to infirmities of old age.

Mrs. Powers was a native of Wisconsin and had resided with [her] son during the past year.

Your Last Name

IS IT ELMER?

THE first of the Elmers, Edward, came to this country in 1631 on the "Lion," as one of the congregation of Rev. Thomas Hooker. He settled in Hartford, Conn., where he was killed by the Indians in 1676. One of Edward Elmer's grandsons, Rev. Daniel Elmer, was one of the three graduates from Yale for the year 1713. He settled in New Jersey in 1727. Horace Elmer, one of his descendants, was a naval officer prominent in the Spanish war.

The name was originally Aylmer, and one of the early members of the family was chief baron of the exchequer in 1535 in England. John Elmer was bishop of London in 1568 and tutor of Lady Jane Gray.

Applegate—This is really a corruption of Applegarth, meaning apple orchard. It was the name borne by a parish in Dumfries, Scotland, and was derived as a surname from this place.

Bagley—This is an Irish and English name, and signified originally one living at a rising ground. Thus it is similar to the name Hill or Mount.

Noble—This is one of the many surnames that is derived from an adjective of personal description. Undoubtedly it was applied to one who was of noble appearance rather than because of nobility of rank.

Mulford—This is doubtless derived from Millford, meaning residence near a mill. It is sometimes spelled Mullford and sometimes with one "l". The first of the name here was William Mulford of Kent, England, who settled in Salem, Mass., where he was living in 1647. Later he removed to

The St. Patrick's ball, the annual dance held by the Firemen, was very well attended and a number purchased tickets who were unable to be present. All present report a very successful affair. No financial statement is ready at present, as some tickets are still outstanding.
